

Available Language Packs

There are a number of community-provided language packs that may be installed via our marketplace.

English is the official language of the software and enabled by default. As the system relies on English as a fallback, it cannot be uninstalled, but can be deactivated if another language is activated and set as the default in the settings.

The language packs provided are contributed and maintained by members of the community. If these translations are incomplete or inaccurate please [redacted] and open an issue or pull request.

We do not take responsibility or ownership for the content within these files.

A [redacted] are available through our add-ons marketplace. The source of these language packs can be found at [redacted].

To install a language pack:

1. Go to Add-ons in your operator panel. Log in to the marketplace if you haven't already.
2. Find the language you'd like to install, click on the add-on and then press the "Install" button.
3. Once the language is installed and activated, you will see the "Manage" button, clicking this will take you to the languages grid where you can deactivate/uninstall the language should you need to later on.

To contribute your own language pack, please  with the files.

We really appreciate your contributions! Existing language packs may also require updating to the latest version, for which we would appreciate contributions too.
